

Back At The Ranch

Back At The Ranch is a place where fabulous form meets quality function. Owner and designer Wendy Lane produces handmade, custom cowboy boots that are truly remarkable and thoroughly astounding. Back At The Ranch is a fun destination store located in a charming historical adobe building in Santa Fe. Along with her own designs and custom projects, Wendy stocks between 800 and 900 pairs of boots at a time. She also offers an excellent selection of the finest belts, buckles and accessories. Some of the designers who share shelf space alongside Lane's own Back At The Ranch Private Label include Rocketbuster, Liberty, Kimmel and T.O. Stanley. Wendy's creations mix everything from basic calf leather to the most exotic and wild skins in unusual colors: fuchsia alligator, the store's most popular blue denim ostrich, stingray and exotic lizards. The incredible designs and amazing craftsmanship must be seen to be believed. Vivid reds, dazzling yellows and a rainbow of other colors are on display when you enter the shop. Upon close inspection, you will find elegant, artistic scenes and patterns that come alive on these quality-crafted boots. Bears in a forest, chili peppers, or playing cards on a field of green are just a few of the amazing vignettes that you will see on the boots at Back At The Ranch. Wendy, who is known for her collaboration with high-profile clients such as Tom Ford, Brooks & Dunn and Don Imus, is able to decorate any boot or design with anything you can imagine. If you can't visit the store in person, Wendy will send a packet to trace your foot and take measurements, ensuring a perfect fit. Find the boot that fits your style as well as your foot at Back At The Ranch.
